NATHAN BUTZLAFF

Lobbyist and former Republican congressional staffer Nathan Butzlaff — who served under Sen. Lisa Murkowski, Rep. Don Young and former Sen. Ted Stevens — has picked up his second Alaska town as a client. Cordova, Alaska, population 2,251, has retained Butzlaff's Capitol Hill firm Jefferson Consulting Group to seek infrastructure funding. Butzlaff — an alumnus of Wasilla High School, the alma mater of Gov. Sarah Palin — was retained in December by Kenai, Alaska, population 7,686.
